

ABSTRACT

The present disclosure relates to a system and method for dynamically replacing code. In one arrangement, the system and method pertain to intercepting program instructions, determining if a program instruction is to be replaced, and 5 dynamically replacing the program instruction with a replacement instruction if it is determined that the program instruction is to be replaced.